The nature of this course is purely online. There is no face-to-face interaction with the instructor but help is always available via e-mail communication with the instructor. Career Life Education 10 will provide opportunities for students to:
 Explore a wide range of post-secondary education and career options
 Think critically about health issues and decisions
 Develop financial literacy skills related to pursuing their education and career goals
 Begin planning for their transition beyond secondary school

Career Life Education 10 provides relevant learning opportunities, helping students relate their learning in school to the demands of the working world and the expectations of society. It also provides opportunities for students to develop those skills, attitudes, and behaviors that will allow them to manage their lives more purposefully and effectively, enhance their personal well-being, and realize their full potential. The course covers all the learning outcomes listed in the Province of British Columbia, Ministry of Education IRP for Career Life Education.
